Body of Missing Man Is Found In the Ohio River

The body of man thought to be that of George Brown, a Terminal employee, of near Fullerton, was pulled out of the Ohio River near the foot of Sinton street by Harley Wales, and his brother, Charles Wales, local shoe workers of 1011 Mill street, about one o'clock this afternoon.

It was raised to the surface and placed in the boat. Examination of the clothing revealed a grocery slip made out to George Brown, the only mark of identification found.

Later, friends of Brown along the river front identified it as his body.

Coroner J.W. Daehler was summoned at once and was on the scene in a short time after the body was recovered. After a brief investigation, he ordered it removed to Dachler morgue where further examination disclosed no marks of any kind that would indicate foul play. Unless some evidence is unearthed during the day that would call for further investigation, a verdict of accidental drowning will be returned by the coroner, he announced this afternoon.

Inquiry at Fullerton, brought forth the information that Brown has been missing from his home, located about a mile back of that village, since last Thursday morning. Nothing was though of his absence, as it was thought that he had planned to remain over in the city during the Korn Karnival.

Coroner Dealer was unable to obtain any information that would assist him in unraveling the mystery surrounding the drowning. Whether he fell out of a boat or fell off the shore is a matter of conjecture. The body was found about twenty feet from the Ohio shore. The condition of the body indicated that it had been in the water for about two days.

Brown was about 50 years of age, married, and the father of seven children, all living. He was a hard working, industrious man, well respected in the community in which he lived. His father, Louis Brown, a Civil War veterans resides in this city.

WOODMEN HELP TO MAKE THE KARNIVAL A SUCCESS

Nearly Thousand Visitors Come On The Homer Smith

Woodmen of the World from three states, Ohio, Kentucky, W. Virginia, assembled in Portsmouth today on the third annual Tri-State Log Rolling, held in connection with the Koro Karnival.

Cold weather kept the attendance down below what the committee had planned for, while the non-arrival of the speakers necessitated a change in the program. Neither W. A. Fraser, of Texas, nor Ralph D. Cole, of Findlay, arrived, and the speaking part of the exercises was eliminated.

Between 800 and 1000 people arrived on the Homer Smith Saturday morning from Huntington and intermediate points, while a few hundred more arrived on the different trains.

The delegation from the Homer Smith paraded from the wharf to the N. & W. depot behind the Ashland band and return, led by the Woodmen Circle of South Portsmouth, while the local degree team brought up the rear. W. W. Smith of Parkersburg, was grand marshal of the parade with Col. J. A. Brewer of Louisville, J. A. Meredith of Ashland and Captain Kelley of Parkersburg as aides.

Five degree teams from Huntington, Parkersburg, New Boston, South Portsmouth and Portsmouth were competing in the prize drills on Market street at noon time. The same teams will compete in the floor drills at the lodge hall after the open air contest is concluded.

The body was fastened to the steel anchor attached to the leaves of Frank Kazmes, which the Wales brothers had been fishing out and getting ready for use.

It was raising to the surface and placed in the boat. Examination of the clothing revealed a grocery slip made out to George Brown, the only mark of identification to be found.

BULGARIA DISPATCHES PROTEST TO GREECE

London, Oct. 9—Strong representations are said by the Central News to have been made by Bulgaria to Greece against the landing of French and British troops at Salonika.

The dispatch of the Central News forwarded from its correspondent at Sofia says that Prodrey Radoslaveff informed the Greek minister that the landing of Allied troops at Salonika was not in harmony with the attitude of the Greek government toward Bulgaria, as recently expressed.

The premier added that if the attitude of Greece was not altered the Bulgarian cabinet could not be responsible for a change in the feelings of the Bulgarian people.

The Bulgarian minister at Athens is said to have been instructed to make similar representations to the Greek government.
